Held at America Online in Irvine

Title: Today's Human-Computer Interaction Challenges

Mimi O'Drobinak, Product Information Specialist at Unisys, will lead a discussion on the present issues OCCHI members face in human-computer interaction. She will ask a series of questions designed to find out who our members are, the challenges they face and interests. It is an opportunity to share your research, receive feedback and hear new ideas.

Meet with fellow OCCHI members to explore the present challenges we face, network and share information.

The meeting is free and open to anyone.
